

GBR- Electrical Installers' Guide to the Building Regulations 17th Edition

With the publication of Building Amendment No 2 Regulations 2004 No: 1808 which introduces Part P to the Building Regulations for England and Wales, the main stream work of Domestic Installers has, for the first time become subject to the requirements associated with building control. This essential guide explains to the electrical contractor the new environment within which they operate and the main requirements with which they must comply.
